Prosecution opens its cover-up case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prosecution opened its case in the Watergate cover-up trial today by telling the jury it would prove that "the most powerful men in the government of the United States ... even including the President" conspired to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

Richard Ben-Veniste, an assistant special Watergate prosecutor, told the jury of nine women and three men:

"We will prove to you in the course of this trial that the attempts of legitimate law enforcement agencies ... were met by an effort to cover up the facts and obstruct the investigations by the most powerful men in the government of the United States in a conspiracy that even involved the President of the United States himself."

The start of the trial was delayed two hours, apparently when one juror asked to be excused.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica excused the juror, Lucille F. Plunkett, 59, and named the first alternate, Helen D. Pratt to replace her.

The five defendants, including three of the most powerful officials in the Nixon administration, sat at five small counsel tables with their lawyers.

When Sirica entered the courtroom at 11:29 a.m., John J. Wilson, attorney for former White House staff chief H.R. Haldeman, immediately rose and moved for a mistrial, apparently because of the request by the juror to be excused.

"Motion denied," replied the judge, who also had presided at the Watergate break-in trial nearly two years ago.

"In the early morning hours of June 17, 1972, a security guard working at the Watergate complex noticed that a downstairs door had been taped so that it would not lock," Ben-Veniste began his statement.

The defendants, who sat listening to the prosecutor outline the case against them, were former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, ex-White House aides Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time lawyer for the Nixon re-election committee.

Ben-Veniste described the meetings at which participants discussed G. Gordon Liddy's political intelligence plan that called for moves including break-ins and illegal wiretapping.

He alleged that on March 30, 1972, in Key Biscayne, Fla., "after some discussion John Mitchell eventually okayed the Liddy plan."

The 31-year-old prosecutor told the jury how the Watergate burglars entered Democratic party headquarters on Memorial Day weekend in 1972.

Listening devices were placed on telephones and then monitored from the Howard Johnson's hotel across the street from the Watergate complex, Ben-Veniste said, and the reports were eventually passed to Mitchell.

Turning to the arrest of the burglars on June 17, Ben-Veniste said: "In the hours following the arrest, word went out across the United States notifying high White House and Nixon campaign officials ...

"We will show that virtually the first thing the conspirators did was prepare a false statement" denying involvement of Nixon campaign officials in the break-in, he told the jury.

He said the conspirators "used their positions of trust and power at the very summit of the government" to keep close tabs on the FBI's investigation and also to involve the CIA in an attempt to throw investigators off the track.

The prosecutor described the raising and payment of more than $400,000 to the burglars and said the jurors should ask themselves: "Why were these payments made?"

Ben-Veniste told the jurors that they would be listening to tapes of White House conversations.

He also warned the jurors that "the language used is sometimes vulgar and coarse," but urged the jurors to disregard that in making their judgments.

Lawyers for Ehrlichman, Mardian and Parkinson planned to outline their defense cases immediately following Ben-Veniste's argument.

Attorneys for Mitchell and Haldeman said they would delay their opening arguments until the prosecution had presented its entire case.

David G. Bress, attorney for Mardian, said he would move for dismissal of the single charge against his client. If, as expected, U.S. District Judge John J.

Cancer fatal for Ed Sullivan

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan, the Great Stone Face whose "really big shew" entertained millions of American television viewers on Sunday nights for more than two decades, is dead of cancer at 72.

He died Sunday night at Lenox Hill Hospital, with Carmine Santullo, his aide and close friend for more than 40 years, at his bedside. Sullivan had been hospitalized Sept. 6, but his illness was a closely kept secret.

Bob Precht, Sullivan's son-in-law and head of Sullivan's TV production company, said the performer-columnist did not know that he had cancer of the esophagus.

A warm but poker-faced newspaperman who got into broadcasting in 1930 with a radio variety show, Sullivan made his debut on CBS with his weekly TV show in May 1948. The program was called, "The Toast of the Town."

In its 23 years on television, the popular Sunday night program introduced to viewers such now-famous performers as the Beatles, Elvis Presley, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis and Dick Van Dyke.

Although the show folded in 1971 because of low ratings, Sullivan continued hosting several specials a year.

Sullivan, born in Manhattan and raised in Port Chester, N.Y., began his newspaper career 53 years ago as a $10-a-week reporter on the Port Chester Daily Item. He drifted into sportswriting and started his Broadway column in 1931 on the now-defunct New York Journal American.

Even at the height of his television success, he continued writing his syndicated "Little Old New York" column, which in recent years ran twice a week. His last column was in today's editions of the New York Daily News.

At ease behind the typewriter, Sullivan's television style was stiff, his delivery halting, his verbal fluffs frequent.

Performers and critics variously referred to him as the Great Stone Face, Smiley, the Miltown Maestro and Rock of Ages.

Although a gracious man in private, Sullivan often feuded with the New York critics who rapped his show, among them John Crosby, whose criticism of the first Sullivan show was headlined: "Why? Why? Why?"

He also occasionally battled with performers, such as singer Frank Sinatra, who aroused the Sullivan ire in 1965 by refusing to appear on Sullivan's show for less than $25,000.

Sullivan, who in recent years lived at the Delmonico Hotel, an old show-biz hostelry on Park Avenue here, said in a 1972 interview that he was severely depressed when his weekly show was cancelled after 23 years.

"When you're off the air, it's like being sentenced to the death chamber. It's sort of like a newspaper where you're doing your column and all of a sudden the managing editor says, 'I've got news for you, boy. You're through.'"

Sylvia, his wife of 43 years, died in 1973. His survivors include his daughter, Betty Precht of Scarsdale, N.Y.; his brother, Charles Sullivan of Port Chester, N.Y.; three sisters, Mrs. Hugh Murphy and Mrs. George Hegel, both of Port Chester, and Mrs. Piercy Culyer of Manhattan; and five grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Sadat agrees to take Arab summit initiative

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger gained Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's assurance today that he will try to rally support at the Arab summit for interim agreements with Israel.

"There are positive indications that we are making progress toward a just peace in the area," the secretary said at Sadat's residence outside Cairo.

Kissinger also announced he would return to the Middle East the first week of November, following visits to Russia and the Indian subcontinent.

After his talks with Sadat, Kissinger flew to Damascus for talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad. Later, he flies to Algeria.

Sadat, the key leader in Kissinger's Middle East diplomacy, seemed to be walking on eggs as he agreed to take the initiative at the Arab summit in Morocco on Oct. 26.

"Why am I asked about guarantees?" he exclaimed when a newsman asked whether Egypt was prepared to offer them to Israel in return for a withdrawal in Sinai. "I myself, I need guarantees," Sadat said.

Council to set date for hearing

A date for a public City Council hearing on charges against suspended Police Chief William Miller will be set tonight at a special closed council meeting at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

Asked if the hearing date would be scheduled for within two weeks, Mayor Jerry Jones said, "I see no reason for prolonging anything."

Jones suspended Miller without pay Wednesday, based on information obtained in a six-month investigation of the police department. Ten formal charges against Miller were announced at the time of the suspension.

But he added that he was "very optimistic" about the summit.

The West German news magazine Der Spiegel quoted Sadat as saying he would be ready to sign a peace agreement if Israel pulls back from territories occupied during the 1967 war.

As Kissinger arrived in Damascus, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy flew to Moscow for talks aimed at improving Soviet-Egyptian ties, arranging a visit to Cairo by Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, and reopening the Moscow-Cairo arms pipeline.

The pipeline practically dried up after Egypt backed U.S. diplomatic initiatives to end last October's Middle East war.

In Jerusalem, former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan signed a petition opposing Israeli withdrawal from occupied Jordan.

The petition was circulated by the right-wing opposition Likud bloc, and Dayan's action raised speculation he would quit Israel's ruling Labor party and join Likud.

Asked about the prospect of Palestinian participation in future Geneva peace talks, Kissinger said, "Negotiations between Jordan and Israel should start first. But as I have pointed out previously,

President vetoes Turkish aid cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today vetoed legislation to cut off U.S. military aid to Turkey, declaring the measure would force the United States to withdraw from Cyprus peace negotiations and jeopardize the NATO alliance.

His veto of the measure, which also continued appropriations for several key government agencies, was expected. So is an attempt by Congress to override his action before taking an election recess.

Ford used strong language in his message returning the measure to Congress without his approval.

"I take this step with great reluctance, but in the belief I have no other choice," he said "... it is an act which is harmful even to those it purports to help."

The President declared the Turkey aid cutoff amendment "is entirely destructive" of U.S. efforts to settle the Cyprus dispute. He added:

"Instead of encouraging the parties involved ... to return to the negotiating table, an arms cutoff to Turkey could mean the indefinite postponement of meaningful negotiations. Instead of strengthening America's ability to per-sue the parties to resolve the dispute, it would lessen our influence on all the parties concerned.

"It would as well imperil our relationship with our Turkish ally and weaken us in the crucial eastern Mediterranean. It directly jeopardizes the NATO alliance."

He said an arms cutoff would not help Greece or the Greek Cypriots because "reckless acts that prevent progress toward a Cyprus settlement harm Greece, for it is the Greek government and the Greek Cypriots who have the most to gain from a compromise settlement."

Ford had made a strong appeal to Congress for a 60-day delay in the aid cutoff to give Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger time to work out a settlement for war-torn Cyprus.

And, he had declared in a speech in Detroit last week that if the aid cutoff was not reversed "history could well record that the Congress has embarked on a dangerous and misguided course of action" which most likely will damage Greece and undermine the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

GOP office-seekers now concerned by Ford issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican candidates who had hoped that the change in command at the White House would ease their political woes now are worrying about the issues raised by President Ford's pardon of Richard M. Nixon, and his amnesty and surtax stands.

An Associated Press survey showed much concern widespread among Republican office-seekers across the nation, and indicated that Democrats are making the most of it.

One Republican, Rep. LaMar Baker of Tennessee, who seeks a third term in the Nov. 5 election, said "I resent having to carry the burden of past actions of officials in our party."

Baker's remarks came after Ford had announced an anti-inflation program including a surtax on middle and upper income citizens.

The AP survey showed the Democrats stand to come close to the record 39 governorships they held after the 1936 election, as well as winning substantial gains in the Senate and House.

To counter this trend, Republicans have begun moving to cut their losses by pumping new money into the breach, planning a heavy media drive and arranging personal visits by Ford, who still rates personally as an asset despite reaction to some of his policies.

The Republican National Committee has spread a large share of its Washington staff around the country to help candidates and has pumped as much as $250,000 into the campaign pipeline in recent days.

Democrats, who remain hopeful of massive gains, concede the money could hurt them, especially in the close races where their own candidates are short of funds.

The AP survey, based on reports from bureaus in the 50 states, late polls and interviews with key politicians, shows the Democrats have a good chance of gaining from 30 to 40 new seats in the House. They already have a 248-187 majority.

In the Senate, Democrats are likely to pick up two to six new seats on top of the 58-42 advantage they already hold.

But the most dramatic gains may come in governorships, where the Democrats already hold 32 to the GOP's 18. Democrats are expected to gain no less than three and as many as eight, including the big ones — New York and California.

Of the dozen Senate seats considered in serious jeopardy, ten are now filled by Republicans. The GOP is defending ten of the 13 or so governorships being hotly contested.

New York and California are the keystones to the potential Democratic landslide. Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr., son of California's last Democratic governor, holds a substantial lead in the polls over Republican nominee Houston I. Flournoy in the race to succeed GOP Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Democrats stand to gain two or more House seats in each of those states. They also should hold Alan Cranston's Senate seat in California and Democrat Ramsey Clark is now given a chance at upsetting veteran Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits in New York.

Besides Wilson, the Republican governors seen in most trouble are Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, who is running considerably behind Democrat Michael S. Dukakis in the polls, and John Vanderhoof of Colorado, who is threatened by Democrat Richard Lamm. One poll even gives Lamm a surprisingly wide lead.

Democrats also are given good chances of picking up Republican governorships in Connecticut, Arizona, Tennessee, Oregon and possibly Wyoming.

The only Democratic governor seen in any real trouble is William Egan of Alaska, who trails Republican Jay Hammond in the polls.

The GOP sees its best chances in Maine and in South Carolina, where the favored Democratic nominee, Charles Ravenel, has been ruled off the ticket by the courts and replaced by Rep. William N. J. B. Dorn, the man he whipped in the primary.

GOP Gov. William G. Milliken is clinging to a slim lead over Democrat Sander Levin in Michigan, the only large state where the Republicans are given a chance.

On the Senate scene, both parties expect Democrat Richard Stone to defeat Republican Jack Eckerd for the Florida seat now held by retiring GOP Sen. Edward J. Gurney.

Three Republican incumbents trail Democratic challengers — Sens. Peter Dominick of Colorado, Marlow W. Cook of Kentucky and Milton R. Young of North Dakota.

In Kansas, Sen. Robert Dole had dropped eight points behind Democratic challenger William Roy in the polls, but a new poll now shows them even.

Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska is the only Democrat seen in serious difficulty. He trails Republican C. R. Lewis in one poll.

Republicans also cling to hopes of picking up the Nevada seat of retiring Democratic Sen. Alan Bible, although a poll shows Democratic Lt. Gov. Harry Reid now slightly ahead of former Republican Gov. Paul Laxalt.

Backroom politics gains favors

By SANDRA GITTENS
NEW YORK (AP) — Backroom politics is the name of the game, say Bill and Nancy Boyarsky. What it involves is the obtaining of favors from politicians by big business, labor unions, bankers and government employees, in return for campaign contributions.

"Backroom Politics" is also the name of their new book. In it they describe the villains as special interest groups; and the heroes as innocent citizens, who sometimes happen upon touchy situations and correct them.

Bill says the beginnings of the book came long before the tidal wave of Watergate. "But I think now people are going to start rebuilding and getting everything together again. I think they want to start doing something about their government."

Nancy agrees but she also believes people are going to mistrust the government more since Watergate. Yet, the only way the changes are going to come about, she says, is if people organize. "It's almost impossible for an individual to do anything. Voting is the easiest thing to do," she adds, "but it does nothing in terms of your own neighborhood."

They both claim most politicians start out with the best of intentions, but find that in order to get re-elected they have to play ball with the people who dispense the money. "Even the people who start out with the highest of motives really disappoint the people who supported them in the beginning. It isn't always true," says Nancy, "but it's true often enough to make it just about the rule."

Bill says that because of the money factor involved in political campaigns they decided to devote two chapters of the book to campaign contributions. Using various cities around the country they tried to explain how certain kinds of political deals can negatively affect the private citizen. "In the contributions chapters we took a disaster that happened in Los Angeles and showed how the law that would have prevented it by requiring better controls had been weakened through the state legislature."

"Next we talked of the efforts to change the law, again, relating everybody's action to campaign contributions. The point," he says, "is that one has to get elected to win. But then they begin making compromises because the money is so important in politics. In that sense a politician is a victim of the system. However, I think that's more of a justification than anything else. He can say 'no.'"

The book was written for two reasons. First, because they became a part of a community, Bill and Nancy could see the direct effects of local politics in their own neighborhood; and second, because, as political writer for the Los Angeles Times, Bill was able to cover local politics and see the mechanics of the system for himself. He discussed the coverage with Nancy, and they decided to write down the kinds of things that go on behind the political scene and why.

Nancy added that private citizens could exert some controls on the structure if they organized, and suggested that neighborhoods find and pay someone for covering city activities. Pointing out that local newspapers are an excellent source for getting to the bottom of particular grievances, she says good contacts and the most reliable information are often appreciated by hometown papers.

"The citizen has more tools at his disposal now than ever before as a result of Watergate," she says.

Polly's pointers

Wants to recycle ball point covers

By POLLY CRAMER

Now that I sleep on a satin pillowcase to protect my hairdo I have many extra pillowcases on hand. I use some of them as protective covers for my purses. These covers keep them from being scratched and from sticking together in hot weather as so many do. My purses are now dust free and scratch free. — MRS. P.D.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve and total aggravation is to go into a self-service or discount store for one or two small items and be detained by people in line who are using charge cards. These take time. It seems there should be a special line and register for such customers so a person in a hurry could go through quickly. Even some stores that do have a line for those with a few items have the same problem and this seems even more aggravating. — M.A.B.

DEAR POLLY — J.S. wanted to know how to whiten her white jeans that have a label saying not to use bleach. Soaking them in water to which she has added dishwasher detergent should do the job. If in bad shape they may have to be washed in the same solution and then in the normal way. Nuns used this to keep their head pieces snow white. — ALICE.

DEAR POLLY — Baby booties are always slipping off but I learned from a friend that if the soft kind of elastic is used instead of ribbon the bootie will stay on. This also eliminates tying and the possibility of baby pulling the strings out and perhaps getting them in his mouth. If white elastic is used it can be covered with a satin ribbon to match the booties. Sew ends of the elastic together so it fits properly and have slip-on booties. I hope others find this the time and fizzle-saver that I have. — ELEANORE.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I hope some reader can give me an idea for using all those little clips that cover ball point pens. I have dozens in all colors and hate to throw them out.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea, Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 5-ounce package (12) taco shells
- 1/4 pound cheddar cheese, grated

Hunter's game not appreciated

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this Open Letter to My Neighbors:

Hi There: Hunting season is here and I know all you "sports" are polishing up your favorite 30-36, 375 Weatherby or British 500 double-barrel elephant gun and heading for the hills of Pennsylvania, the western slope of Colorado or Upper Michigan to slay that mighty deer, elk, bear — or maybe your best friend, by mistake.

For many years you've been bringing us meat — half rotten from being dragged three miles behind your trail bike, or slung over a horse, or hung up in a camp for three days while your buddies got their game.

You then ground it up with hamburger or pork and mixed in some sage and pepper to get rid of the godawful taste.

Please, friends, this year take a camera along and snap a picture of good ol' Smokey.

Bambi or your guide leaning against a tree. Send the pictures to me and the meat to Ann Landers. — You Know Who Dear You: Ann Landers doesn't want the meat either. Thanks a heap.

Dear Ann Landers: A young "widow" just left my office in tears. Her "husband" had been killed at work only a few days before. But that was only part of her agony. She and her "husband" were not married. They "eloped" to another state for appearances' sake, but were unable to get married because his divorce was not final. They lived as husband and wife for over ten years before his sudden death, intending all the while to marry. But they kept putting it off, fearful that it might get into the papers and their children, family and friends would know they had been living together without benefit of clergy.

Because of this terrible mistake in judgment and the procrastination that followed, this woman may be deprived of Workman's Compensation and Social Security benefits and she may also have to explain to her family why she is not eligible for the additional income.

All of this could have been avoided if that woman and her sweetheart had known they could have been married secretly at any time after his divorce was final. All that is required is a valid ceremony before a judge or a justice of the peace. Many jurisdictions do not publish licenses, and if they do, a lawyer's request that no publicity be given the marriage would certainly be honored.

Will you please inform your readers? It could save a lot of anguish for others who are in similar situations. — Attorney Who Wishes To Be Anonymous

Dear Attorney: Your letter could be very helpful to many of my readers. Thank you for taking the time out of your busy day to write it.

Fatality rate has doubled

Pettis County's accident rate continues to show an improvement over 1973, but during the first nine months of this year, twice as many persons were killed on county roads as during the same time last year.

So far in 1974, the Highway Patrol has investigated 256 accidents in the county resulting in 10 deaths and injuries for 113 persons.

That compares to 281 accidents, 5 fatalities and 157 persons injured in the same time span last year.

The county's over-all showing for the year occurred despite the fact that the number of accidents in September stood at 38, eight more than last year. The county also recorded one fatality last month, compared to none during September, 1973. The number of persons injured in the month in both years was the same — 10.

Statistics for the first nine months for other area counties are as follows:

Benton County: 151 accidents, 4 fatalities, 54 injured.

Henry County: 133 accidents, 4 fatalities, 55 injured.

Johnson County: 273 accidents, 5 fatalities, 109 injured.

Lafayette County: 256 accidents, 7 fatalities, 133 injured.

Saline County: 191 accidents, 4 fatalities, 103 injured.

Cooper County: 196 accidents, no fatalities, 115 injured.

Moniteau County: 85 accidents, 1 fatality, 52 injured.

Morgan County: 164 accidents, no fatalities, 110 injured.

Administrative error is cited in decorations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says an administrative error was responsible for Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. receiving two decorations for heroism in Vietnam in separate commands at the same time and in the same battle.

Haig, former White House chief of staff who was recently named supreme allied commander in Europe, was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross (DSC) for heroism during the Battle of Ap Gu on March 31 and April 1, 1967.

He also was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC) for actions as a brigade commander during the same battle.

In a statement Sunday night, Lt. Gen. James Hollingsworth said he was responsible for recommending both awards. At the time, he said, he was assistant division commander of the 1st Infantry and the senior eye witness.

"The DFC was for the air mobile assault and the action pertaining to Gen. Haig's acts in his attempts to save the life of his reconnaissance platoon leader and subsequent action in the extraction of his dead lieutenant and wounded enlisted men," Hollingsworth said, adding that this occurred the afternoon of March 31.

He recommended Haig for the DSC "as a result of his extraordinary heroism in command of the first 26th Infantry on the morning of April 1, Hollingsworth said.

The Daily Oklahoman reported the conflicting decorations in its Sunday editions.

It said Haig was awarded the DFC for actions as a brigade commander although he did not become brigade commander until afterward and never left the ground during the time claimed in the citation.

Dear Undone: Your minister came when it was convenient for HIM, but not for you. Guests who drop in unexpectedly are inconsiderate — no matter who they are.

Prosecution

Sirica rejects his motion, Bress said he then would deliver his opening argument.

All five defendants are charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice, a charge that carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

All but Mardian also are charged with obstruction of justice, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

In addition, Mitchell is charged with two counts of lying to a grand jury, one count of lying to FBI agents and one of lying to the Senate Watergate committee.

Haldeman is charged with three counts of lying to the Watergate committee and Ehrlichman is charged with one count of lying to FBI agents and two counts of lying to a grand jury.

Each of the perjury counts carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison with fines ranging from $2,000 to $10,000 for each.

The indictment returned by a federal grand jury on March 1, 1973, charged the defendants "would corruptly influence, obstruct and impede" the investigation of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

It took nine days to seat the jury of nine women and three men that will hear the case. Sirica admonished the jurors to discuss the case with no one and to "give each one of these defendants the same kind of a fair and impartial trial you would want to receive if you were seated in their place."

He ordered them sequestered for the duration of the trial, expected to last three to four months. They are lodged at a motor inn about two miles from the courthouse.

Saturday, the day after the jury was sequestered, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski announced his resignation, effective Oct. 25. Aides said Jaworski, who had served for a year, waited until the jury was locked up before making the announcement to avoid any pre-trial publicity.

He recommended that his deputy, Henry S. Ruth, succeed him.

Even as the jury finally began hearing the case, behind-the-scenes maneuvering continued among the lawyers seeking advantage for their client.

Focus of much of the maneuvering was Nixon, who, while still President, was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the case.

Both Haldeman and Ehrlichman want Nixon to appear as a defense witness.

Sirica made public motions from the two former White House aides and the former President's request that subpoenas directing him to appear be dismissed.

The judge ordered responses to the Nixon requests filed by the end of the day Wednesday. He said he then would schedule oral arguments.

Nixon also was subpoenaed by the prosecution. Haldeman said he is asking that a subpoena be issued.

Both Ehrlichman and Haldeman asked that the trial be delayed and each also requested a separate trial. Sirica denied Ehrlichman's request. Haldeman's, which used much the same arguments, primarily the unavailability of Nixon as a defense witness, still was pending.

Both former White House aides said they needed Nixon's testimony to support their versions of unrecorded conversations in which they indicated they either knew little of the cover-up or had advocated full disclosure of the involvement of re-election committee officials in the Watergate bugging and break-in.

Vacant home is destroyed by fire

Fire destroyed a vacant frame house at 25th and Washington about 12:45 a.m. Monday.

The cause of the blaze was listed by fire department officials as undetermined and value for the loss was set at $2,500. The house was reported owned by Dica Younger, Route 4.

About 4:49 a.m., firemen were called back to the scene to extinguish a fire which was started by smoldering ashes.

negotiations should include all the parties concerned."

A key goal of Kissinger's current trip has been to initiate separate Israeli-Egyptian and Israeli-Jordanian talks rather than to press for a full-scale Geneva parley. Newsmen travelling with Kissinger were told Sunday the secretary hopes to have new peace negotiations under way by the end of the year.

After five hours of talks with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli leaders Sunday, Kissinger said they had agreed on "principles and procedures" in future Arab talks.

The Israeli-backed strategy also won the support of Saudi Arabia's King Faisal during Kissinger's brief stopover Sunday in Riyadh en route from Israel to Egypt.

The American secretary arrived in Cairo Sunday night and held a post-midnight meeting with Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy before talking to Sadat today. Sadat's reaction to the proposals Kissinger brought from Israel was not disclosed.

Newsweek magazine reported that on the Egyptian front the Israelis are talking of withdrawing 31 miles from present disengagement lines if Egypt indicates willingness to end the 26-year state of belligerency.

But Egypt reportedly wants a bigger pullback. War Minister Ahmed Ismail warned Sunday that Egypt was prepared to resume fighting if Israel refuses to withdraw from Arab lands. Such threats have been common since the October war.

While in Riyadh, Kissinger also won Faisal's pledge to push for lower oil prices among the Arab leaders. Although Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter, frequently has pressed unsuccessfully for lower prices, the pledge was given Kissinger personally by the king, who wields a powerful voice in Arab councils.

After his Damascus stopover, the secretary of state leaves for Washington, with an overnight stopover in Algiers for a conference with President Houari Boumedienne. The Algerian president has opposed partial pullbacks by the Israelis as tricks to delay their total withdrawal from occupied Arab lands.

Pot penalty reduction is proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The maximum penalty for simple possession of small amounts of marijuana for personal use would be reduced from one year to 30 days under draft legislation that rewrites the U.S. Criminal Code.

The reduced marijuana penalty is one of hundreds of changes in federal criminal laws found in the proposed legislation, an outgrowth of a massive project begun in 1966 by a commission appointed by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Separate bills growing out of the commission's proposals, one developed by the Justice Department and the other by the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on criminal laws and procedures, have been combined into the draft legislation.

Many of the changes the legislation would make are technical simplifications and improvements. Others are of major significance likely to prove controversial.

The legislation is being prepared for introduction in the next Congress.

Besides the change involving marijuana possession, here are some of the ways in which the present code would be altered.

Provision is made for appellate review of sentences in federal criminal cases, on an appeal taken either by the government or a defendant, in an effort to reduce glaring disparities in penalties imposed by judges.

Dissemination of obscene materials to minors or to any person, in a way in which there is no opportunity to avoid exposure to it, would be prohibited.

Commercial distribution to consenting adults would be banned only if this would be in violation of the laws of the state in which it was disseminated.

Sex bias in sex crimes would be wiped out so that, for example, a 21-year-old woman who seduced a 14-year-old boy could be convicted of statutory rape. Under present federal law, statutory rape applies only in cases of girls under 16 years of age.

Resolution adoption by U.N. predicted

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Arab diplomats predict the U.N. General Assembly will adopt a resolution today inviting the Palestine Liberation Organization to join its upcoming Palestine debate "as the representative of the Palestinian people."

The resolution has been submitted in behalf of 69 nations, or half the assembly membership, including all Arab nations except Jordan. It is expected to receive support from Communist members and many of the Third World nations.

U.N. sources said Jordan probably will vote for the resolution as a procedural move. King Hussein's government did not join the sponsors because he refuses to recognize the PLO as the representative of Palestinians under Jordanian jurisdiction, although he recognizes PLO authority elsewhere.

Israel has condemned the proposed resolution. It contends the PLO is a terrorist organization bent on destroying Israel and as such should not be given an audience in the United Nations. Nevertheless, Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah said he expects an invitation to be approved.

U.S. sources would not say how the United States will vote, but the Americans often have voted against Palestine refugee resolutions opposed by Israel.

The assembly is to begin the Palestine debate Nov. 7. It will be the first debate since 1952 on the subject except for debates on Palestinian refugees and alleged Israeli atrocities in occupied Arab territory.

Buford posts bond on burglary charges

Michael E. Buford, 19, 802 North Missouri, was released from Pettis County jail Saturday afternoon after posting $3,500 bond.

Buford is alleged to have taken part in the break-in of Uncle Jim's, 214 East Second, early Friday morning.

He was apprehended by city police about 4:45 a.m. Friday after being seen driving away from the rear of the building. A rear door of the building was found pried off, but no one was found inside.

Jackets valued at $215 were taken from the store.

According to the sheriff's department, Buford is to appear in Pettis County Magistrate Court at 10 a.m. Oct. 22 for arraignment on charges of second-degree burglary and stealing.

Ten merchants pay additional license fees

A total of $281.65 in additional merchant's license fees were paid the city by 10 local businesses, City License Inspector Bob Brown announced Monday.

Brown discovered the firms owed the city the additional money after conducting routine audits on their books for the past fiscal year.

The cost of a merchant's license, which is determined at the beginning of the fiscal year, is based on the estimated amount of gross revenue a store owner expects to make during that year. Brown's audits, which this year covered 36 establishments, revealed whether the store's actual earnings during the fiscal year matched the estimated figure and what, if any, adjustments had to be made in the cost of the license.

Because the added payments were figured at $1 per every $1,000 in added actual year-end income, a total of approximately $281,000 in revenue was not projected by the 10 firms in determining the cost of their license.

In addition, Brown said, the city refunded a total of $3.55 to three merchants who had paid too much for their licenses.

Several items taken in house break-in

Police reported Monday that the home of David Cook, 618 West 16th, was broken into sometime Saturday night while he was away from the house.

Police reported that Cook found the door of the house open when he returned home. Cook discovered a watch, amplifier, .22 caliber pistol, and a ring were missing. Value for the loss was set $417.

Police also reported that a 1966 Chevrolet pick-up truck owned by L and M Construction Co., Route 2, was stolen from the 3800 block of East Broadway. Police said the theft apparently occurred sometime Saturday night.

Debbie Walker, 22, 804 Ruth Ann, reported Thursday the theft of an eight-track stereo tape deck valued at $80 from her car while it was parked at Fifth and Massachusetts.

LLOYD LEWELLEN
Area Farm Management
1974

The widespread frost over Central Missouri the first Wednesday morning in October pretty effectively destroyed the leaves on growing soybeans, corn, and milo. Here is Bill Murphy's analysis of the situation, along with some suggestions and information that may be of value.

Fields of soybeans have had their leaves destroyed, stopping translocation from the leaves into the beans — and that means bean size won't increase further, because there is little translocation from the stems to the beans.

His examinations in some of the hardest hit areas indicate that the beans were not frozen inside the pods, except for a very few right at the top of the plant, so we can expect practically all of the beans, even most of the late-planted beans, to go ahead and dry out in the field. We expect them to turn yellow as they mature, and thus not classify as frosted beans when marketed. Some of the top beans won't make it because the small stems were frozen, everywhere from one node to as many as four nodes down. These may drop from the plant, and probably few will go through the combine into the grain tank.

So while soybeans were hurt some by the frost, with some reduction in yield depending on how far they had to go to maturity, and on whether a few beans on the top of the plant are lost, it doesn't appear that there has been a disastrous loss on this crop in Missouri to date. The weight of dessicated leaves that hold on the plants is probably going to keep the mature plants from straightening up, and leaf trash may make for a "dirty" harvest, but we should still harvest a lot of good beans.

Frosted corn
Corn had its leaves destroyed also, and photosynthesis has stopped. But the stalks and the ears were not frozen, so corn should continue to stand. And, unlike soybeans, corn does have considerable nutrients located in the stalks that should continue to be translocated to the ears, giving some further increase in dry matter in the kernels in the fields that were immature. Experimental work in Ohio back in the early 1940's indicated that considerable transfer from stalk to ear occurred after corn that hadn't reached physiological maturity was cut and shocked, so we feel confident this same process applies on this corn with frosted leaves.

Unless a hard freeze catches this immature corn while the ears and stalks are still green, we expect it to make harvestable corn, even though kernel size will be reduced, test weight will be lower, and there is likely to be more difficulty with cob breakage in shelling, etc. We can expect it to take longer than usual to dry down in the field and of course yield will be reduced, but unless one needs the silage, harvesting for grain should still be the best bet, as it should still be good feed.

Late milo

Late maturing grain sorghum has probably been hurt more than corn and soybeans. The stalks were not frozen, so it should still stand. But it appears that a lot of these late fields can't help but end up with only small shriveled kernels, and such kernels are almost surely going to be hard to thresh out of the heads when combining. So a lot of these late fields are the best candidates for using as silage, if one can put up and use the silage crop.

Experimental work has indicated grain sorghum is at least as good as forage sorghum for silage. Good crops have commonly given 7 to 8 tons per acre. Since these fields were very green and immature, waiting for it to dry down some before ensiling is even more important than with corn.

Acid on grain

The weather continues to be unfavorable for maturing crops so what do you do with high moisture grain?

Experimental results have been favorable when organic acids have been used to preserve corn or milo with moisture levels up to 35 per cent. The feeding value of the grain on a dry-matter basis has been equal or superior to dry corn for beef cattle. Treated high-moisture grain has not spoiled when rolled and mixed with supplements and kept in self-feeder for one to two weeks after removal from storage.

The amount of acid to apply increases with moisture level and length of storage. Some

Veterans planning bill vigil

Acids are needed at higher application levels than others. Application rates appear to be quite well-defined and are published in the literature of companies selling the particular product.

Acid-treated high-moisture grains can be stored in wooden, metal, and concrete bins or silos. These acids are slightly corrosive to metal and concrete. Metal bins can be protected from corrosion with epoxy paint, chlorinated rubber-base paint, or plastic liners. Concrete storage can be protected with these or coated with boiled linseed oil, according to Kansas State University research. A plastic liner has greatly decreased grain spoilage at the concrete-grain interface.

Cost of treating high-moisture grain with acids has been considered to be approximately equal in cost to commercial drying. The increase in cost of fuel for drying the past year and any increase in cost of acid or application equipment would necessitate a re-evaluation of the cost comparison of the two systems for this year's crop.

The Federal Drug Administration does prevent the sale of acid-treated grains for human consumption.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A group of ex-servicemen plans to stage an overnight vigil when President Ford visits Kansas City Tuesday to express concern that he might view an undated version of the GI Bill.

Ed Bruns, director of the Area Veterans Council, a veterans group, said Sunday night members of his organization would stage the vigil from 6 p.m. Tuesday to 8 a.m. Wednesday at the Hotel Muehlebach, where the President will stay.

The group will request that Ford meet with them to discuss the bill and problems faced by former servicemen, Bruns said.

He said there would be no more than 10 men at one time who would keep watch so they might have a better chance to meet with the President. Bruns said he thought Ford might hesitate to talk individually to members of a larger group.

Winter wheat planting may increase

By DON KENDALL

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drought relief in parts of the Great Plains and a switch from corn and other crops in some states may boost winter wheat plantings 3 to 5 per cent from last year, says an official of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

"But that doesn't necessarily mean total grain production will go up next year," says Jerry Rees, executive vice president of the association. "It possibly could mean a decline."

Rees said there is indication that many farmers who had severe corn losses from drought last summer are planting winter wheat this fall. Also, some sorghum producers in the southwest appear to be doing likewise.

Thus, because wheat is lower-yielding than corn and sorghums, the net grain output from those converted acreages could be down sharply.

Initially, Rees said in an interview, the association last August surveyed members and found they probably would not increase winter wheat plantings this fall. But effects of the drought became more apparent later and that probably caused much of the switching.

Rees said winter wheat seeding in Oklahoma and Texas appears to be up from last year because of improved soil moisture conditions. Also, he said, wheat seems to be popular in eastern Nebraska and parts of Kansas where drought-damaged corn was cut for silage.

But in part of western Kansas, Colorado and a big section of Washington state, dry weather has delayed winter wheat seeding. There is still time, Rees said, if those areas get adequate moisture.

Total wheat production this year was estimated last week by the Agriculture Department at a record 1.78 billion bushels. That included 1.39 billion of winter wheat.

The total wheat output this year was up four per cent from 1973, with all of the gain registered by the winter type. Durum and other wheat planted in the spring declined from 1973 production.

In its crop report issued Oct. 10, USDA said winter wheat planting for next year's harvest made "fair progress" last month although heavy rains delayed field operations in Texas.

"On Oct. 1 in the southern Great Plains soil moisture supplies were plentiful in much of Texas, adequate to surplus in Oklahoma, and mostly adequate in Kansas," the report said. "Dry conditions cover much of Nebraska, South Dakota and North Dakota."

By Oct. 1, the report said, winter wheat planting was "well ahead of normal" in Kansas with about 60 per cent of the crop seeded against only 35 per cent a year ago and 50 per cent normally on the date.

The Agriculture Department said today the Republic of China, Taiwan, is developing into one of the largest export markets for American farmers.

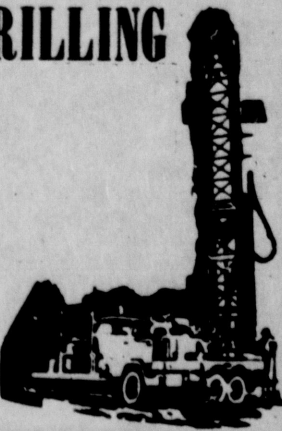

"This is especially true for wheat, corn, barley, cotton, soybeans and tobacco — commodities aided by strong demand, domestic crops insufficient to meet growing needs, and rising incomes," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said.

A conservative view

Right and left converge in the Senate

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — It is a truism of political science that "right" and "left" cannot be measured horizontally across a band of colored chips. Ideologies march around a circle, and now and then they meet. Right and Left met in the Senate last Monday afternoon.

The issue had to do with the emergency powers of presidents. For more years than I can remember, this has been a favorite rallying cry of my friends in the right-wing redoubts. In season and out, they have been warning that some president — would invoke a long-forgotten Executive Order, clap us all in concentration camps, declare martial law, and assume dictatorial powers. It all seems a little implausible, but it kept their juices flowing.

By one of those conjunctions of political philosophy, the same prospect alarmed liberals also. The situation especially alarmed Maryland's Charles McC. Mathias and Idaho's Frank Church, two senators for whom my conservative brothers seldom speak a kindly word. They normally stand 180 degrees removed from such sturdy warriors as Goldwater, Thurmond and Tower. But this past week, Left and Right stood as one.

Mathias and Church last year became co-chairmen of a bipartisan select committee on emergency powers. As their investigation went forward, they became more apprehensive about what they found. The nation has been in a formal, official and perhaps lawful state of emergency for more than 40 years, since Franklin Roosevelt declared the bank holiday of 1933. We have been in three other states of emergency also.

The two senators sought help from an Air Force computer. They stuffed the computer with the United States Code and programmed the machine to respond to such words as "emergency" and "crisis." To their amazement, they discovered that Congress had authorized successive presidents to exercise emergency powers in some 470 areas. As a matter of law, the situation was precisely as conservative Cassandras had said.

For one example, the computer turned up Title 47, Section 606(c), which authorizes a president, whenever he declares a state of public peril or disaster, to suspend radio and television broadcasting. The section is not quite that broadly drawn — it apparently reflects a fear that broadcasting stations might provide navigational aid for enemy bombers or submarines — but the authority is broad enough to provide for drastic suspension of communications.

The industrious computer disgorged hundreds of other statutes having to do with industry, agriculture, transportation and the courts. Citing a national emergency, a president could freeze bank accounts, close stock exchanges, and institute martial law. The committee staff collected all these references, compiled five volumes of hearings, and concluded that some remedial action had to be taken.

The Senate took that action on Monday. Without a dissenting vote, it approved a National Emergencies Act. One year after the bill becomes law, the four existing states of emergency would be abolished. Future declarations of emergency would require congressional consent, and no emergency could continue for more than six months without renewed congressional approval. Every action taken by a president under emergency powers would have to be published in the Federal Register. At present, as the Church-Mathias committee found, publication of executive decisions is "clearly a result of the president's own discretion."

On the House side, Peter Rodino, chairman of House Judiciary, has introduced a companion bill. This late in the session, it is doubtful that action can be completed on a public law, but the matter will be revived in January. President Ford supports the Church-Mathias approach, and it seems unlikely that meanwhile he will invoke the forgotten Seed and Forage Act of 1861 in order to wage unauthorized wars around the globe.

The Senate bill strikes a wise balance, in my own view, between the too little and the too much. The measure recognizes that a cumbersome Congress cannot run the country in a period of genuine emergency. But it recognized also that presidential power must always be restrained. This is what Southern conservatives used to call the Sound Doctrine. It remains sound, one is pleased to observe, even when it is propounded by Mathias and Church.

Carl Rowan Numerous legacies of Nixon

WASHINGTON — Of all the silly letters that I get — and, believe me, I get some doozies — the most asinine are those asking "why everyone doesn't just forget Nixon," or why "the press remains obsessed with Nixon, even after it destroyed him."

There are some compelling reasons why no Americans are going to forget Nixon soon — aside from any arguments as to whether anyone is obsessed with notions of kicking him around.

Thirty-four Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate, 35 GOP candidates for governorships, 435 GOP members seeking seats in the House would all like nothing better than to forget Nixon and have the rest of the country do so. But, as Kansas Sen. Robert Dole states with candor, Nixon and the Watergate crimes hang like a poisonous pall over virtually every Republican running for office.

Then, how is anyone going to forget Nixon when for months the front pages and TV newscasts will be full of stories about the trials of Nixon's former top aides?

How does anyone forget Nixon when Congressmen like Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., tell us that perhaps as many as 64 federal employees are detailed to Nixon's San Clemente complex, that for Secret Service protection and other services we taxpayers are still spending $2 million a year on Nixon? And that doesn't include the $200,000 Congress is about to appropriate to finance Nixon's "transition to private life."

But perhaps the most important reasons why we'll not soon forget Nixon is that his lingering influence is going to touch all our lives deeply for many years.

Richard Nixon appointed more men and women to federal judgeships than any other President. Nixon named 220 judges to the federal bench, including four of the nine members of the Supreme Court. These are people appointed for life who will enforce the laws and interpret the Constitution as it applies to you and me.

Thus the quality of justice in America for as far ahead as you can see will be determined largely by men chosen by the first President in our history to leave office tarred with scandal.

Everybody understands the importance of these judgeships. What you may not be aware of is that Nixon appointees now dominate 12 federal regulatory agencies which make crucial decisions and rulings affecting the daily lives of just about every American.

Congressional Quarterly recently pointed out that, on the day he resigned, Richard Nixon had named every single member of eight of those important regulatory groups. I refer to the Civil Aeronautics Board, which oversees air travel; the Federal Communications Commission, which controls the TV and radio stations; the Federal Power Commission, which decides how high your light bill is; the National Labor Relations Board, which influences the well-being of your union; the Securities and Exchange Commission, which is supposed to protect Americans from stock manipulators; the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which is supposed to prevent you from being ripped off by unscrupulous businessmen.

The Nixon people who control these agencies don't go out with Nixon. They are appointed for terms expiring in 1978, 1979 — and in the case of the Federal Reserve Board, as late as 1988.

The Nixon legacy is with us, and no sane American can ignore it.

The members of the Roadside Development Committee of the Sedalia Garden clubs and other Garden club members spent Wednesday at Bradford Roadside park assisting the Missouri State Highway Department workmen in completing work on the park, which is located on Highway 50 west of Sedalia. This park is the first to have a Blue Star Memorial Highway marker in Missouri.

The charity dollar: where does it go?

Americans gave a whopping $24.5 billion to charities last year. Unfortunately, only part of this huge sum actually went to the needy.

According to "Everybody's Money," a quarterly publication of the Credit Union National Association, large percentages of the monies collected by professional fundraisers and organizations go for fees and program costs rather than benevolent services, at the expense of an unknowing public.

For example, a fundraising organization hired by the Police Chiefs of America to raise money for the survivors of police killed in the line of duty produced $400,000 but subtracted $376,000 for expenses, leaving only $24,000 for that actual fund.

By contrast, Easter Seals collected more than $52.8 million in 1972, of which 62 per cent went to program services. Likewise, 69 per cent of the $34.1 million given to the American Cancer Society in 1972 went to research and public education.

The public's right to know where its charity money really goes is being championed by Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., in a bill now before Congress. The bill, H.R. 1911, would, among other things, require charities to disclose full financial information, upon request.

The bill wouldn't be a cure-all, however. Religious organizations would be exempt and last year, 41 per cent of all charitable donations went to such groups.

Don't think that charities aren't interested in your small contributions. More than 80 per cent of the almost $25 billion given last year came from individual donors. Those $1 or $5 or $10 gifts add up.

Those working for charity reform have no desire to dry up this well. "We don't want to stop people from giving," says Marilyn Kolb of the Council of Better Business Bureaus' philanthropic advisory department. "But we want to see the money go to the right place for the right reason." (NEA)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The oil crisis will change not only the nation's economics, but its environment, as well.

Higher oil prices have forced the United States, under Project Independence, to search for new sources of energy. This will bring some radical changes to America.

An exhaustive secret study by the Federal Energy Administration forecasts that the energy boom will bring more mine tragedies, fewer auto accidents, more industrial noise, silent solar energy. It may create shale oil boom towns, with wretched health facilities. It might even lead to earthquakes.

We have obtained the preliminary secret draft, running hundreds of pages, which will be condensed into a final FEA report next month. Here's how the new developments are expected to affect health and safety:

✓Oil: As oil becomes more expensive and less available, Americans will drive less and keep their homes cooler in winter. "Decreased reliance on the private automobile will cut accident rates, as well as automobile emissions," the report predicts. "Beneficial health effects may also result from lowered thermostats."

But homeowners probably will insulate their homes better, which would cause slower "venting of air pollutants emitted by ... tobacco products, gas stoves, aerosol cans, etc." This would cause "increased indoor exposure to pollutants."

The new offshore drilling along the Eastern and Alaskan coasts, meanwhile, will expose workers to more hazards, and the increased spills "may become a public health concern if the petroleum products find their way into commercial fish or shellfish."

✓Coal: "Coal emerges as the dirtiest energy source of all fuels considered," declares the study. Yet it may become "the interim fuel source until nuclear, shale oil,

Merry-go-round

Energy independence will exact a price

solar and geothermal facilities can be built."

The nation's 125,000 coal miners, whose "health and safety record is one of the worst for any industry," can look forward to even more danger from pollutants. Tall smoke stacks will not help despite what the power companies say. The environment will also be poisoned by slag fires, chemical leaks and other coal byproducts.

A study of asthmatics, for example, reveals that attacks go up the nearer the victims are to a coal-fired power plant. One of every five children near such a plant had silicosis. These plants will multiply under Project Independence.

✓Shale Oil: Shale oil workers will be plagued by "dust, noise and accidents," not to mention "volatile hydrocarbons," during the energy boom. Some of these may cause cancer, which the water run-off from the spent shale could also spread.

"Development of shale oil facilities could be accompanied by boom town development," the report warns. "Adequate medical and sanitary facilities must be provided to ensure public health."

✓Solar Energy: "Solar energy emerges as the cleanest, safety energy source," although there is a possible health hazard from the germanium used in "photovoltaic cells," the report states.

✓Hydroelectric Power: Hydroelectric power, where it can be developed, is comparatively free of serious health problems. The chief danger, says the report, would come from a dam failure.

✓Solid Waste Fuel: Solid waste probably will be burned for fuel. This would help wipe out "open dumps which are excellent breeding grounds of disease-carrying insects and rodents." But solid waste fuel will increase air pollution.

✓Nuclear Power: "Nuclear energy, while a clean energy source in terms of air quality," states the report, "presents the greatest potential hazard to human health of all fuels. All persons are susceptible to radiation and its effects of cancer, mutations and life shortening..."

"To date," the report adds, "there have been no hazardous releases of radiation to the public from commercial reactors in the United States." The 50 now in operation are considered safer than power plants fired by coal or oil. But the enormous dangers of plutonium, which can cause bone cancer for the most infinitesimal exposure, "cannot be dismissed."

✓Geothermal Energy: As another substitute for oil, it may be possible to harness the heat from the earth's core. But along with the useful steam, more noxious substances — sulfides, ammonia, carbon monoxide, radon, boric acid and mercury — will also bubble out of the earth.

Drilling for geothermal power is a noisy exercise, sometimes causing deafness among miners. "The role of geothermal development in triggering earthquakes is not well known," the report adds ominously, "but the potentials for major seismic action cannot be dismissed."

As more and more energy is produced in America, the report foresees a noxious release of soot, salts, acids, tarry droplets, dusts, sulfurous gasses, nitrous gasses, carbon monoxide, oxidants, hydrocarbons and other filth into the air.

The results, as specified in the report, are enough to make a person want to go back to the horse-and-buggy and the triple-quilted double bed.

Seasonal growth

Each spring and summer, a tree adds new layers of wood to its trunk. The wood formed in spring grows fast and is lighter because it consists of large cells while growth is slower in the summer causing darker wood of smaller cells. When a tree is cut, the layers appear as alternating rings of light and dark wood.

Much confusion about cholesterol

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have a cholesterol problem and have been put on a low cholesterol diet. Is a high cholesterol related to weight gain? What is the normal cholesterol level?

On my diet list, candy, soda, wine, beer, crabs, shrimp and cake aren't listed. I was wondering if you could tell me which ones are permitted, if any.

Do you have any booklets on low cholesterol diets and explanation of this disorder?

Dear Reader — Confusion abounds about cholesterol. Cholesterol in your bloodstream comes from two sources, mostly that formed by the liver and some from the cholesterol in your food. Yes, yes, yes, eating too much of anything that results in a weight gain (obesity) can lead to excess production of cholesterol by the liver in many people.

Sugar, fat, alcohol and even excess protein can be readily converted to cholesterol and blood fats (triglycerides). A low cholesterol diet, or a low fat diet will not be as successful as it could be unless you prevent or eliminate obesity.

The normal value of cholesterol isn't very useful if you mean usual value. We do know that to be in the lowest risk group, that is the least likely to have a heart attack, it is better to have a cholesterol level of below 220. Because of different laboratory methods, some methods may give a reading five to 15 per cent higher than 220 and still be an acceptable reading for this risk group. In general, I think you could say that if it is over 220 it could be improved, and if it is over 250 you should do something about it.

Of the foods you asked about, it makes a lot of difference how some of them are prepared. Cake can be almost devoid of cholesterol, as in angel food cake which is also low in fat, or very high in cholesterol of made with lots of egg yolks as in a pound cake. They can contain lots of saturated fat, as in many commercial devil food cakes. You can bake your own using safflower oil or corn oil and avoiding egg yolks and have a cake that is low in saturated fat and free of cholesterol.

Soda, wine, and beer contain no cholesterol or fat. Alcohol, however, is high in calories and contributes to obesity.

The best information I can refer you to for your type of questions is my book, "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health," published by the Viking Press. It will give you all the values for cholesterol for all common foods, the calories of fats (saturated and polyunsaturated), a discussion of the various types of food and recipes to prepare your food for low-fat, low-cholesterol diets, or for just low calorie foods for weight control.

Most shellfish, except oysters, are moderately high in cholesterol and can be used, but should be used sparingly.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a man, 61 years old and I work every day. I would appreciate it if you could tell me if pickles and olives can cause high blood pressure.

Dear Reader — No, they won't. But if you need to restrict your salt because of high blood pressure, then your doctor might not want you to eat them, because they do contain lots of salt. (NEA)

Overland Park man dies in blaze at home

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — Wallace F. Grant, 46, president of a real estate firm, was killed and his wife was injured severely when a fire swept through their home in Overland Park early Sunday.

Grant was pronounced dead of smoke inhalation and the Johnson County coroner's office said there would be no autopsy.

Mrs. Sylvia Grant, 45, was in critical condition at a hospital where she is suffering from smoke inhalation, officials said.

The couple's 21-year-old son, Brion Grant, who was home from Kansas State University for the weekend, fled the fire unharmed after trying to reach his parents.

A 16-year-old daughter was staying overnight at the home of a friend.

Cause of the blaze and the amount of damage was not determined.

'Freeway Series' moves north

Los Angeles Dodgers even up Series

OAKLAND (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers are picking up speed in their "freeway series" with the Oakland A's.

"We've captured the momentum that we lost in the first game," said Joe Ferguson, hero of Sunday's 3-2 victory over the A's that tied the 1974 World Series at one game each. The A's won the first game by the same score.

Riding the crest of their dramatic victory at Dodger Stadium, the National League champions prepared to face the A's Tuesday in Game 3 at the Oakland Coliseum — a seven-hour car ride from Los Angeles.

Ferguson hopes he can produce as explosively as Sunday, when he belted an enormous two-run homer over the center-field fence off Vida Blue.

The Dodgers will start little-used Al Downing against Catfish Hunter, the A's formidable 25-game winner. Explaining his choice of Downing over Doug Rau, normally the Dodgers' No. 3 pitcher, Manager Walt Alston noted: "Downing's been pitching better than Rau the last few times out. It's as simple as that."

The way the A's have been hitting of late, it may not take much to stop them, anyway. "We've been having a hard time producing runs," said Al Dark, Manager of the American League champions. "We'll take them any way we can get them."

The A's were not able to score until the ninth inning Sunday. Shut out by Don Sutton through the first eight, the A's needed some breaks in the last inning to get men around the bases.

Sutton, a 19-game winner this year, hit Sal Bando with a pitch leading off the ninth and then gave up a check-swing double to Reggie Jackson that eluded Los Angeles third baseman Ron Cey.

Alston brought in strongman Mike Marshall from the bullpen at this point, but baseball's premier relief pitcher didn't exactly look in top form right away. He gave up a two-run single to Joe Rudi, and the A's were back in business. Herb Washington, Oakland's famous designated runner, took over for Rudi at first base after Gene Tenace struck out and every one of the 55,989 fans at sunny Dodger Stadium knew what he was going to do. So did the Dodgers.

"It's my job to hold him on and to give the catcher the best chance to throw him out," said Marshall, cognizant of the fact that Washington would try to steal second.

Washington had thoughts of stealing second anyway, but didn't get very far. Marshall, one of the best pickoff men in the business, nailed the flashy runner with a perfect throw to first baseman Steve Garvey.

The entire Oakland team appeared stunned after that play. The last batter, Angel Mangual, went down without a whimper, striking out on Marshall fast-balls. While the A's waited until the late innings to produce the drama, the Dodgers produced the runs in the early and middle innings. A whistling single to center by Steve Yeager drove home Ron Cey when the first run of the game in the second inning and then Ferguson made it 3-0 with his 420-foot rocket shot with Garvey aboard in the sixth.

Downing gets call

Ferguson may catch Tuesday

OAKLAND (AP) — Manager Walter Alston plans a switch in his Los Angeles Dodger lineup for Tuesday night's third World Series game which will give Joe Ferguson a chance to show his wares in another department — catching.

In the first two games at Los Angeles, the Oakland A's used left-handers, but Tuesday night it's right-hander Jim Hunter on the mound.

"I'll probably use Willie Crawford in right field and have Ferguson catching," Alston said. Crawford is a left-handed hitter; both Ferguson and Steve Yeager, the catcher the first two games, are right-handed hitters.

"I don't care where I play as long as I can swing the bat four times," declared Ferguson, who turned in one of the greatest throws in World Series history during the first game and banged a two-run homer over the center-field fence in the second.

Alston hasn't shuffled his lineup much this season, but he does use Ferguson both in right field and behind the plate. Al Downing, 5-6 during the regular season, gets the starting call for the Dodgers.

"If Al is on, he's tough to beat," Yeager commented. "Basically, if he can put the ball where he wants it, we'll win."

Don Sutton pitched the Dodgers to their 3-2 victory Sunday after the A's captured the opener by the same count in this best-of-seven series.

"It's the best Dodger ball club I've been on," commented Sutton, a rookie with the 1966 championship team but now a $100,000 a year performer.

"We needed the victory. I think this team has a chance to be a dynasty, but it would become awfully tough to overcome anybody, especially the Oakland A's, if you're down two-zip."

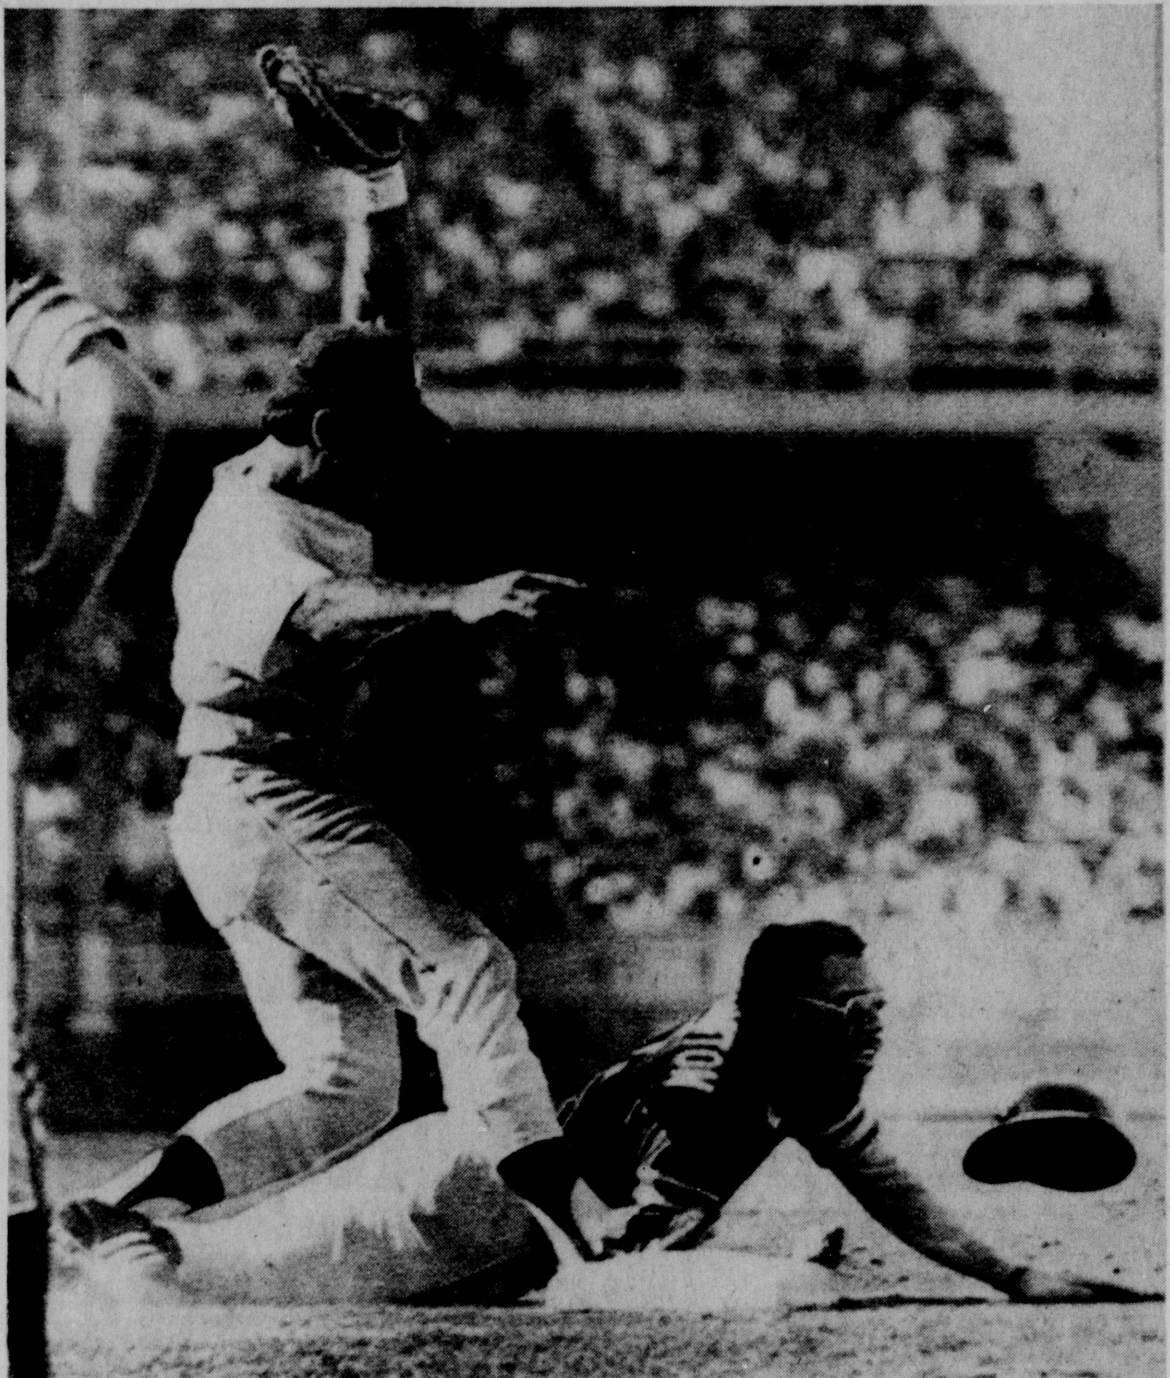

Downing draws the unenviable chore of facing the A's ace Catfish Hunter, a 25-game winner. After that the Dodgers can go back to their one-two right-handed duo — Andy Messersmith and Sutton.

Although he gave recent performance as his reason for choosing Downing, Alston did make the choice over a couple of youngsters, Doug Rau and Geoff Zahn, who had taken over Downing's spot in the regular season rotation.

Rau was the loser in the third game of the championship playoffs as Pittsburgh bombed him out in the first inning.

Ferguson looked ahead saying, "We've recaptured the momentum we lost in that first game and in a short series, momentum is important."

Yeager suffered bruises on his left leg when he took Ferguson's throw and tagged out the hard-sliding Sal Bando in the first game. Yeager limped during the second game but still had two hits including a single that drove in the first run.

Washington rubbed out

Los Angeles Dodgers' first baseman Steve Garvey lifts his glove in the ninth inning after putting the tag on Oakland speedster Herb Washington in Sunday's second game of the World Series.

The pickoff by Dodgers' relief pitcher Mike Marshall snuffed out an Oakland rally, allowing the Dodgers to even up the series a one game apiece with a 3-2 win. (AP Wirephoto)

Virginia Wade pockets top prize in Phoenix tourney

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Virginia Wade moved into the final phase of her three-week plan today with hopes of winning the $110,000 championship tournament of the Women's Professional Tennis tour in Los Angeles.

English-born Miss Wade defeated Helen Gourlay of Australia 6-1, 6-2 Sunday to take home the $10,000 top prize in the Phoenix Professional Women's Tennis Tournament.

Miss Wade had four love games as she dominated her less-experienced opponent. Miss Gourlay took home $5,600 of the $50,000 total prize.

Miss Wade won the two sets without a double fault while Miss Gourlay had five double faults including three in one game.

Miss Wade said she reached the finals last week, only to lose to Chris Evert, and after winning Sunday, she hopes to be up for the tour finale.

In a pro set, Betty Stowe of The Netherlands topped No. 1 seeded Billie Jean King. Each pocketed $2,800.

In doubles, Miss Stowe and Francoise Durr shared $3,200 for defeating Mona Schallau and Pam Teeguarden 6-3, 5-7, 6-3. The losers split $1,800.

The victory pushes Miss Wade's circuit winnings for the year to more than $44,000.

California returns an earlier girls volleyball match at Sedalia Smith-Cotton Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts and Physical Education Building.

The varsity holds a 4-1 record, while the S-C junior varsity team is 3-2.

Lions, 49ers matched on TV

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions have lost their four National Football League games this season but, believe it or not, they are on an upsurge — statistically anyway.

The San Francisco 49ers have a 2-2 record, but seem to be on the downside.

Whether those trends continue will be determined tonight when the National Conference rivals meet at 9 p.m. EDT, in their nationally televised game at Tiger Stadium.

"I still think we can do it. We can still be a factor in our division race," says first-year Lions Coach Rick Forzano, whose team has lost its games by only 14 total points.

"We're improving offensively each game and our defensive effort has been outstanding each week," he continued.

A loss would virtually eliminate Detroit from playoff hopes in the Central Division race, while the 49ers aren't nearly in such bad shape since they won their first two games.

"Ever since I've been with the 49ers we have had a tough time with the Lions and it always seems to be tougher in Detroit," San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan says.

"We have done fairly well defensively so far, but the Lions have enough weapons to make this our toughest test."

Edgar 'Sam' Rice dead at age 84

ROSSMOOR, Md. (AP) — Edgar "Sam" Rice, a Hall of Fame centerfielder who played for the Washington Senators from 1915 to 1933, is dead at the age of 84.

Rice, who batted over .300 for 14 seasons, died Sunday at his home. He had been ill for some time with cancer.

During his 20 years in major league baseball play—19 with the Senators and his last with Cleveland—Rice drove in 1,078 runs and scored 1,514 runs. His lifetime batting average was .322.

Downing, 5-6 this season, was a member of the A's staff briefly in 1970, the year before he surprised the baseball world by becoming a 20-game winner with the Dodgers. He came up with the right assortment of pitches to make up for the fastball he had lost.

"Sutton isn't a fast ball pitcher, either," said the A's Reggie Jackson when asked if he looked forward to Downing's pitches after facing 20-game winner Andy Messersmith and Sutton in the opening two games at Los Angeles.

"I don't mean to knock Sutton," said North. "He's a good pitcher, and did very well against us, but it was still a 3-2 game. With a break here or there, we could have won it."

The A's looked back at two big scoring threats that fizzled Sunday, the first when North hit into a double play with the bases loaded and one out in the eighth inning.

"I thought I had a hit there. It was the best ball I hit in two days," said North of the hard grounder fielded by Dodger shortstop Bill Russell, who stepped on second and threw into the dirt toward first base.

"I thought the ball would go up the middle, but Russell was breaking that way. Then his throw hit 10 feet in front of Steve Garvey. If it had gone through him, we still would have had two runs," North added.

"It was the toughest hop possible," said North in tribute to Garvey's backhanded pickup at first base which protected a 3-0 Dodger lead.

In the ninth, Joe Rudi singled home two runs and left the game for pinch runner Herb Washington with one out.

Manager Alvin Dark, who pleases A's owner Charles O. Finley every time he inserts Washington, decided to let the former Michigan State track star try to steal second off reliever Mike Marshall.

Washington never got near second, cut down at first on a pickoff throw by Marshall.

"I took us out of a big inning," said the sprinter who once took a class under scholar-athlete Marshall at Michigan State.

Joe Gilliam rips up Chiefs in Steelers 34-24 victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Joe Gilliam of the Pittsburgh Steelers looks like one of the brightest young quarterbacks to rise on the National Football League horizon in recent years. Gilliam put on another dazzling show Sunday, guiding the Steelers to a 34-24 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs. He completed 14 of 36 tosses for 214 yards and one touchdown and had only one interception. Even Coach Hank Stram of the Chiefs took time out from discussing his own club's inadequacies to praise Gilliam, a three-year pro out of Tennessee State.

"Gilliam did a terrific job," Stram said. "He's a brilliant young quarterback. He throws extremely well under pressure. He's very daring. He has a quick release. He adds a new dimension to that Pittsburgh club. We've seen him before but never like he was today."

Gilliam's only comment about his performance was that "their front four is so big, it's hard to pick up the receivers."

Gilliam, who found receivers often in clutch situations, hurled his touchdown pass to Frank Lewis, a 31-yarder late in the third quarter that kayoed the Chiefs almost for certain. He also connected on an 18-yard strike to Preston Pearson at the three-yard line, setting up the touchdown, scored by Pearson from three yards out, that gave Pittsburgh a 14-10 lead. The Chiefs never caught up.

Shortly thereafter, Glen Edwards faded in front of a pass thrown by Mike Livingston, the Chiefs' No. 2 quarterback, and returned it 49 yards for another Steelers score.

Livingston hit on 15 of 43 passes for 243 yards and three touchdowns but was intercepted five times. In all, Pittsburgh swiped seven Kansas City passes, the most ever against the Chiefs.

"It's difficult to throw that many times and not make mistakes," said Stram. "We had nine turnovers all together, and there is no way you can win with that many turnovers."

The Chiefs led twice, first when Jan Stenerud opened the day's scoring with a 31-yard field goal and again when Livingston fired a 13-yard pass to Barry Pearson but Gilliam and the Steelers' Pearson wasted no time erasing their team's deficit.

Early in the second half, Livingston hit Otis Taylor with a 10-yard strike for a touchdown, making the score 24-17 and bolstering the hopes of the partisan crowd of 65,517.

However, the Steelers struck back quickly and moved down the field on Gilliam's passes and penalties, and Roy Gerela kicked his second field goal of the contest, a 45-yarder.

"Our defense played exceptionally well," said Steeler Coach Chuck Noll. "We got a tremendous pass rush and great coverage. Offensively, we made too many mistakes. Fumbles and penalties hurt what could have been a great offensive performance."

Pittsburgh is 3-1-1 in the American Conference Central Division and Kansas City 2-3 in the West.

Cardinals push record to 5-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If it's any consolation, the St. Louis Cardinals believe the Dallas Cowboys could be 5-0 in the National Football League. But the Cowboys, once foremost among NFL teams, instead are licking their wounds with a 1-4 record while the Cardinals own the 5-0 mark.

"We could easily be where they are and they where we are," Cardinals quarterback Jim Hart remarked, however. "They're a strong team," said Hart, whose passes helped the Cardinals to a 31-28 Sunday victory. "They're not about to lie down. We knew we were going to have to score again."

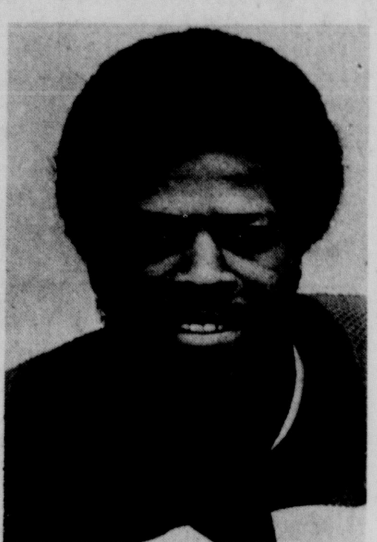

Hart, deadly in the first half, rifled scoring aeriols of 80 yards to Mel Gray and 19 yards to Jackie Smith as St.

Louis rolled to a 21-14 halftime lead over Dallas on 312 total yards. And when Clarence Duren intercepted a Roger Staubach pass early in the third quarter the Cardinal bulge rose to 28-14 on Terry Metcalf's eight-yard run before the Cowboys awoke. Walt Garrison's one-yard slam into the end zone first capped a 67-yard march as Dallas fought back to 28-21 early in the final period.

Ten minutes later, after Staubach rolled right for another touchdown, the Cowboys had climaxed their uphill climb with a 28-28 tie with 3:51 left.

There, however, Dallas erred fatally by kicking off to the dangerous Metcalf, who fielded the ball at his 10 and raced 56 yards to the Cowboy 34.

Donny Anderson smashed twice through the line for gains producing a first down, the key to a 31-yard field goal by Jim Bakken.

"I knew it was going to come down to that," said Bakken, whose kick with 1:02 to go accompanied his four earlier extra points. "As soon as I kicked it I felt it would be good."

The loss was the third of the young season by the margin of a field goal for Dallas, which stormed to St. Louis' 21 in the final seconds.

Wide receiver Golden Richards was hurt on a pass completion carrying to that point with two seconds left, but a timeout was futile in an attempt to set up a tying field goal.

"It's a tough game, I'll tell you that," acknowledged the Cowboys' Staubach, who completed 19 of 29 passes for 236 yards in his team's fourth straight defeat.

"I've never been in a four-game losing streak since the seventh grade," mused the 32-year-old quarterback as he flexed his right hand.

"We had our chances," Staubach said. "We got 28 points. They just made a couple of big plays when they needed them."

Pats keep up pace; 'Skins upset Miami

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The New England Patriots and St. Louis Cardinals are still having the time of their lives. The Miami Dolphins are starting to fight for theirs.

The Patriots, with Sam Cunningham's two touchdown runs providing the offense, ran roughshod over Joe Namath and smothered the New York Jets 24-0 Sunday while the St. Louis Cardinals, on Jim Bakken's clutch 31-yard field goal with 1:02 to play, stung the Dallas Cowboys 31-28.

That kept the two early-season surprises unbeaten through five National Football League games, along with the Minnesota Vikings, who shellacked Houston 51-10.

But the Dolphins, everybody's early-season favorite, dropped their second game of the campaign, falling 20-17 to the Washington Redskins, their old Super Bowl foes, on Sonny Jurgensen's second touchdown pass of the game, with a scant 16 seconds to play.

In Sunday's other games, Green Bay stunned Los Angeles 17-6, Atlanta nosed out Chicago 13-10, Buffalo beat Baltimore 27-14, Cincinnati outlasted Cleveland 34-24, Oakland scrambled past San Diego 14-10, Pittsburgh defeated Kansas City 34-24, Denver dumped New Orleans 33-17 and Philadelphia slugged the New York Giants 35-7.

Patriots 24, Jets 0

Cunningham scored on a five-yard sweep around left end in the first period and a one-yard plunge in the fourth to lead the Patriots' attack. But it was the defensive unit that really sparked, sacking the Jets' Joe Namath four times, intercepting two of his passes and two more by reserve quarterback Al Woodall, and limiting Namath to completions on just seven of 21 attempts for a meager 63 yards.

Redskins 20, Dolphins 17

The Dolphins shackled Billy Kilmer in their 14-7 Super Bowl victory two seasons ago. And Miami Coach Don Shula would have preferred to see him calling Washington's signals again. Instead, he saw Jurgensen engineer a seven-play, 60-yard drive in a minute and a half that ended with a six-yard touchdown pass to Larry Smith.

Packers 17, Rams 6

Green Bay intercepted four Los Angeles passes — three of them by linebacker Ted Hendricks — and turned two of the thefts into scores. But it was Jon Stagers who gave Green Bay the lead for good, running back a second-period punt 68 yards for a touchdown and a 7-3 edge.

Falcons 13, Bears 10

The Falcons limited Chicago to only 28 yards in the first half and 77 after three periods before the Bears struck on a long touchdown pass and added a late field goal to gain a 10-10 tie. That left the outcome in the hands — or, more precisely, on the foot — of Atlanta's Nick Mike-Mayer.

He acknowledged he was nervous when he trotted on the field with 10 seconds remaining, "but as soon as I kicked it I knew it was good," he said of the 31-yard boot.

Bills 27, Colts 14

Safety Neal Craig picked off one of Bert Jones' few passes late in the first half and ran it back 55 yards for the touchdown that put the Bills ahead to stay at 10-7.

Jones passed for 44 yards — but was sacked five times for 43 yards in losses.

Bengals 34, Browns 24

Ken Anderson passed for 279 yards and three touchdowns — 28 yards to Lenvil Elliott, 65 to Charlie Joiner and 18 to Isaac Curtis — and ran 19 yards for another score in the Bengals' victory over Cleveland.

Raiders 14, Chargers 10

Trailing 10-7 going into the final period, Ken Stabler put the Raiders ahead to stay by ending an 80-yard drive with a four-yard touchdown pass to tight end Bob Moore.

Broncos 33, Saints 17

The Broncos' Steve Ramsey

threw two touchdown passes while Otis Armstrong ran for a pair of scores, keeping New Orleans winless in 18 straight road games.

Eagles 35, Giants 7

New York took a 7-0 first-quarter lead before Philadelphia quarterback Roman Gabriel got things moving with his first two touchdown passes of the year. Jim Del Gaizo, replacing injured Norm Snead for the Giants, threw three pass interceptions, two that led to Eagle touchdowns.

Okla., Buffs share Big Eight spotlight

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Unbeaten and second-ranked Oklahoma opens its Big Eight Conference football campaign Saturday with a hazardous invasion of Colorado where the Sooners have lost two of their last three appearances.

The Sooners' last defeat on the field was at Colorado in 1972 although they had to forfeit three other games that season for using an ineligible player, Kerry Jackson. In 1972, the Buffaloes won at Boulder 20-14.

Oklahoma, 4-0 this year, kept its record unblemished Saturday by nipping 17th-ranked Texas 16-13, winning on Tony DiRienzo's late-game field goal of 37 yards. Colorado, 3-2, breezed past Iowa State, 2-3, by 34-7.

At least one other big game is on Saturday's schedule. Kansas, No. 19, is host to fifth-ranked Nebraska, a team which was upset last weekend by Missouri 21-10. Kansas makes its second conference appearance after coming from behind on sophomore Laverne Smith's 51-yard draw play touchdown run that beat Kansas State 20-13 in the fourth quarter.

The other games send Missouri to Oklahoma State, idle last week, and Kansas State to Iowa State.

Oklahoma got its chance for the winning field goal when Texas Coach Darrell Royal ordered the Longhorns to try for a first down on a fourth-and-one situation at midfield. Rod Shoate recovered freshman Earl Campbell's fumble at the 50. Joe Washington, the Sooner flash, gathered 122 yards on 26 carries.

Missouri, 3-2, fired by substitute quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz, was 10 points behind when the Tigers erupted for three touchdowns on the fourth quarter against the heavily favored Huskers, 3-2. Pisarkiewicz ran two yards for one TD, passed nine yards to Mark Miller for another. Tony Galbreath ended the scoring with a five-yard run.

The Huskers, who got their only touchdown on Terry Luck's 10-yard pass to Don Westbrook, played without quarterback Dave Humm after the first series of the third period.

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio said the game "was the best I have ever been involved with in my career." Coach Tom Osborne of Nebraska said the Huskers "simply didn't control the line of scrimmage offensively all day long."

Irwin $33,000 richer

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — "Not a bad trip to Europe," said Hale Irwin. "I'm going home richer by $33,000."

The 29-year-old golf star scored one of the greatest victories of his career at Wentworth Saturday — a 3 and 1 triumph over Gary Player of South Africa in the final of the Pictadilly World Match Play Tournament.

It was worth $24,000. The previous week Irwin had picked up $9,000 in an international medal play event at Lacome, France. Irwin, U.S. Open champion, upset all the bookies' odds with his decision over Player, who was bidding to win the Pictadilly for the sixth time in 11 years. Everyone said the little South African knew the 3,997-yard, par-73 course so well he could not lose.

But Player, after a one-under-par morning round, went off form, hooking his drives and missing short putts. Irwin plugged steadily away and hit a stream of three woods from the fairways onto the greens.

Irwin said he owed a lot to his Scottish caddie, Ian Connors.

"Gary knew the course much better than I did, but so did Connors," the American said. "In fact he knows it backwards."

Irwin beat Bob Charles of New Zealand and Tony Jacklin of Britain before conquering Player in the final of the head-to-head, elimination classic.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Last week we wrote about squeeze plays including the so-called automatic squeeze."

Oswald: "I suppose you want us to get around to other plays which should be automatic."

Jim: "The automatic falsecard is one of these. South's jump to four spades is a mild overbid. He has to get away without losing a trump trick to make his contract."

Oswald: "The defense starts with three rounds of hearts. South ruffs the third lead and probably leads a diamond. Dummy's queen falls to East's ace and a club comes back."

Jim: "South wins in dummy; leads a low spade and finesses his queen. At this point it is up to West to falsecard and drop the nine."

Oswald: "He could also drop the 10. The important point is that if he drops the six, South's only play to make his contract will be to lay down the ace and drop the king. If West plays the nine or 10 South may go back to dummy; lead the jack and hope to bump the king and the other intermediate card together."
